

Proposed Solution for the Iraq Dilemma

April 21, 2004

Family and Friends,

3 AM Baghdad time.....

Thought I'd share my uniquely proposed "Bose's Exit Plan From Iraq before June 30th" with you all today.....I understand the Bush administration and nations are debating the future of this country.....below is my humble solution based on a very eventful day:

The day began caring for an entire bus full of Iraqi civilians who were open fired upon. Yes... a bus full of patients with gunshot wounds!!!

THEN....the day REALLY started....

A prison filled with criminals was mortared in Baghdad today and all of a sudden... "Bose, we are receiving up to 50 patients." Absolute chaos. Some dead and never even arrived to me. Several others near-fatally injured.

Now here is the irony. This was a prison filled with Iraqis suspected of anticoalition activities....the ones who were firing mortars at us trying to kill Americans but somehow got captured and put in prison. Now the same people who they were working with fired mortars at them! Firing at their own "teammates!" Not only are these select crazy people trying to kill us but now they are succeeding at killing themselves! Insane!

Then it hit me! A brilliant idea! These people are killing everyone! They are even killing themselves now! If they continue to do this maybe all the "bad guys" will take each other out and there will be none left. The other good Iraqis can live happily ever after and we can smoothly exit the country....

At the rate things are going this may all even occur before the proposed June 30th deadline!

Just a thought.....

You are in my thoughts.....

Good night,
Sudip
